This week I'm tossing a great big bright bouquet to an old friend of mine who is just starting his twentieth year as chief of police in Wauchula—up in Hardee county. Harry A. Yetter last week started his 20th year of service as head of the police department in that thriving city. It was in November back in 1920 when he was chosen marshal—now it's chief of police—for after all, Wauchula has grown to be a modern little city. Chief Yetter's welcome greeting and friendly smile make a stranger feel at home in the city limits of Wauchula. I lived in Wauchula several years ago and I know in what high esteem residents of that city hold Chief Yetter. He is an efficient law enforcement officer—a substantial citizen of the community—and a friend to all who know him. So, this is my way of sending Christmas greetings to Chief Yetter and his estimable family.

Speaking of law enforcement officers brings to mind the fact that some sort of road patrol is needed on the south shore of Lake Okeechobee. Last year the sheriff's department of Palm Beach county maintained two patrolmen in the Lake Region. This season there is only one — Francis Cross of Canal Point who has more than one man can do. With hundreds of trucks plying the road around the Lake there should be some way to solve the problem of handling the heavy traffic. I see by the paper where the county commission referred a South Bay committee to the State Road Patrol. There may be some chance of relief from this source but I doubt it. After all, there are only a handful of patrolmen to cover 67 counties in the state. I think the county commissioners and the sheriff should get together and work out some kind of a plan whereby the school children and motorists may be protected in an area that has such a heavy traffic.

I read somewhere about a flock of transients being arrested and forced to buy Florida automobile tags. The story goes that these folks were working and earning a livelihood in Florida. The state law says they must buy Florida tags. I can see no good reason why a fellow who lives under the Florida sun and earns his living here shouldn't contribute some small something toward the upkeep of government. I'm of the opinion that it is right and proper for these folks—living and earning a living in Florida—to purchase Florida tags for their automobiles. They contribute little enough to our state's welfare.

Workmen on Lake Okeechobee dike construction—who are here for the first time—are learning a lot about the waters of that lake. They're learning fast that Lake Okeechobee can get rougher quicker than any body of water anywhere. A few barges sunk—work help up—and various and sundry other happenings of the past few days have taught these newcomers that Lake Okeechobee is a treacherous body of water. After all, hasn't the federal government spent over $20,000,000 in an effort to keep the unruly waters of the lake out of our front yards?

Another Thanksgiving come and gone. That makes two this year. We celebrated yesterday for our Thanksgiving. We just closed up shop and took it easy for the day. I can think of so many things for which I'm thankful that it would be impossible to enumerate them.

I'm wondering if you've given any thought to your Christmas shopping. I've made one trip over to Lake Region stores. The proprietors are making every effort this year to present displays of America's finest Christmas merchandise. So, this season, when you're making out that shopping list—and wondering where you'll find the things you want—be sure and pay a visit to your local stores before buying elsewhere.

LIGHT HOLLYWOOD FIELD FOR BASEBALL

Plans are underway for lighting Dowdy Field at Hollywood for night baseball as a result of that city's baseball team joining the newly formed East Coast baseball league. Play on the lighted field will start as soon as northern teams have finished their spring practice, during April. Other cities include Miami, Miami Beach, Fort Lauderdale, West Palm Beach and Fort Pierce.

Lake Worth Falls Before Blue Devils Wednesday Night

Hobsonmen Get 12 Points While Trojans Chalk Up Nothing

Coach Frank Hobson's Pahokee Blue Devils added another victory to their string Wednesday night when they journeyed to Lake Worth and took the Trojans into camp by a score of 12 to 0. The game was featured by the defensive play of both teams and with the exception of one or two attacks by the Blue Devils neither team advanced for much yardage on running plays.

After a scoreless first quarter, Pahokee scored twice in the second. After advancing the ball to the Lake Worth 12-yard line the ball went over to the Trojans. Attempting to punt out of danger, Rayburn saw his kick blocked and recovered by Johnny Kautz on the Lake Worth 5-yard line. The Trojans held for two downs, but on the third attempt, Peacock passed to Left End Cowen for the touchdown. Peacock's pass for the extra point was incomplete.

The second touchdown followed shortly afterwards. Lake Worth held on their own 20-yard line, punted to Frasure on the Pahokee 40-yard line and the Blue Devil safety man ran straight down the sideline 60 yards for the touchdown without a Lake Worth man near him. John Kautz's attempted drop kick was wide.

The Trojans threatened once in the third quarter when they reached the Pahokee 15, but Thomas dropped Dermitt's fourth down pass in the end zone to end the threat and neither team threatened again.

The game saw H. B. Baxter back in uniform for the first time since the Plant City game. Young Baxter recently suffered an attack of pneumonia but has recuperated fast. Coach Hobson sent him in late in the game to do some punting and allowed him to remain for a few minutes to get the feel of the pigskin. A large crowd of Everglades fans accompanied the team to Lake Worth for the game.

Tag Buyers Asked To Clean Up State Debt To Teachers

English Puts Autos With Low License Numbers On "Honor Roll"

TALLAHASSEE, Nov. 30.—Automobile owners in Florida were urged today by State Superintendent Colin English to wipe out the state deficit in the teacher salary fund by purchase of license tags early in December.

The teachers salary fund of Palm Beach County was $76,486 short on November 15, and an additional $43,706 will be due this county from the state on December 15.

Payment of teachers' salaries will be on a sound financial basis before the Christmas holidays if motorists who have been buying tags in January will make their purchase early in December. The tag number on each car will identify early buyers, and English urged motorists to take pride in display of these "honor roll" numbers.

Receipts from tag sales are earmarked for the state teachers salary fund, which is apportioned to the counties on a basis of school attendance. Tag revenue comprised 70 per cent of the state's total aid for schools last year.

The budget for this county shows that teachers are under contract to receive $522,569 this year, and funds due from the state for paying those teachers will amount to $370,696. Additional state aid will be received for transportation of pupils.

Conservation Plan And Fire Control In Effect In January

Chief Stafford Tells Of Progress Being Made By His Department

A $10,000 Everglades soil conservation and "permanent fire control" program is scheduled to get under way in January, W. M. Stafford, chief of the Everglades fire control district, said Monday.

Arrangements for the work, Stafford said, were begun recently at a conference attended by him, Governor Cone and C. K. Davis of the United States Soil Conservation Service, which will direct the undertaking.

The project is separate from the $300,000 water resources survey contemplated for the area and will consist of building levies, dikes and drainage ditches where they are needed the most.

Discussing feasibility of protecting some Glades lands under this program by keeping them under water until needed, Stafford declared that due to drainage and other causes some lands in the area lose three to three and half feet of soil each 10 years by erosion even when not damaged by fires.

Under the plan of federal aid, he said, the soil conservation service will make heavy tractors and other equipment available for use by Glades fire control forces.

Despite the fact that the 1939 legislature voted $75,000 for the district's operations this year, deficiencies in the general revenue fund have caused the governor to limit the fire control district's operating funds to $2,000 a month, Stafford said. This, he added, necessitated releasing from the force Wardie Cox, McCormick of Hendry county, E. R. Wright of Okeechobee county and M. A. Summers of Glades county.

Stafford said the governor had promised aid in raising an additional $15,000 at the rate of $3,000 a month for the conservation program under a plan of using money received by trustees of the internal improvement fund from sales and leases of state-owned lands in the Everglades.

The Glades fire chief also said he was getting up figures on amounts spent on conservation by the Lake Worth drainage district and other agencies within the fire control area with the idea of their being matched by federal funds.

Dynamite Washes Overboard; Wind Hits 44 Mile Clip

23 Boxes Of Explosives Dumped Into Lake As Barge Sinks

Britons worrying about electrified mines being parachuted into the English channel had nothing on residents of Canal Point Tuesday. Somewhere in the murky waters of Lake Okeechobee are twenty-three boxes of dynamite washed overboard from a barge employed on dyke construction work when a forty-four mile wind struck construction equipment on the big lake.

A million dollars worth of dyke construction work is at a standstill as the federal government completes plans to retrieve the dynamite—a job which will probably call for "sweeping" the eastern waters of the lake over a five mile stretch. An experienced diver in on his way to Canal Point to "walk" the bottom of the lake in an effort to locate the eleven hundred and fifty pounds of high explosive.

Workmen say that the explosive—in three pound sticks—will lose its intensity within 48 hours after it has become thoroughly soaked in the waters of the lake. However, it was pointed out that the federal government under whose jurisdiction the levee contractors ar at work, will take no chances and every effort will be made to locate the explosive before sending men back on the dkye construction job.

Streamliners On Florida East Coast Railway Of The Very Latest Design

Flagler System Offers The Finest In Railway Transportation

The Florida East Coast Railway's two new stainless steel streamlined trains, operating between Miami, Jacksonville, and New York offer daily service on the fastest schedule in history on these important runs.

The "Henry M. Flagler," plying between Jacksonville and Miami on a six and one-quarter hour schedule, is the first light weight modern train to operate wholly within the state.

Its companion train, operates in coordination with two similar trains of the Atlantic Coast Line to make up "The Champion" service between Miami and New York on a 25 hour schedule.

Built in the plant of the Edward G. Budd Manufacturing Company, Philadelphia, the new flyers offer accomodations which are the last word in luxury. Appointments are equal of any which have been built into extra fare equipment, yet the cost of travel on the new trains is to be based on low "coach" fares.

Reclining, fully adjustable chairs in the new "chair-coaches"; modern, restful decoration styled by famous artists; commodious lounge compartments; deep divans in the various public rooms; fuid air conditioning and soundproofing in every car—these are some of the features engineered into these new Florida East Coast trains for the comfort of the traveling public.

Travel for women on the new trains, even with small children, will be a pleasant experience.

Fluorescent illumination, which closely resembles daylight, is incorporated in the train's lighting system in such a way as to give evenly diffused, glareless light which has been skillfully used to accent the beauty of the decorations.

The first car directly behind the Diesel locomotive, is a combination mail-storage and passenger car. The passenger compartment, in the rear part of the car, is of modern "chair-couch" type and provides accommodations for twenty-two persons. The decorative scheme is in rich tones of soft grey. Walls of olive grey blend smoothly into the fog grey ceiling, into which two olive buff ceiling stripes have been blended. These stripes are in reality the air conditioning diffusers, through which air is introduced into the car through a series of small outlets. Upholstery is in blue, while ebony black window sills add a smart contrasting touch. Separate rest rooms for men and women are provided.

Following this car are two sixty passenger "chair-coach" cars with their entire space, exclusive of the roomy lounges, devoted to lounge chairs. Walls of slate grey green are here combined with a ceiling of green grey enlivened with green blue ceiling stripes. Soft tones of grey, green and blue

Light Vote Cast But Majority Is More Than Three To One

All precincts in the district registered a vote favorable with the exception of South Bay where the vote was five for and fourteen against the issue.

According to the law as passed the 1939 legislature act becomes effective three days after receiving a favorable vote of the citizens. Under the terms of the hospital district act, a maximum levy of 10 mills is possible to support the institution or institutions.

Government Tries Hyacinth Machine

A new device for destruction of hyacinths which clogs the canals was tried recently in the North New River canal at South Bay by government engineers. A specially designed device for chopping up the lilies was mounted before and at which drew the hyacinths into the machine, cut them in little pieces and left them to die on the surface.

B. F. Paty Ann'nces His Candidacy For State's Executive

West Palm Beach Attorney Makes Announcement Tuesday Night

B. F. Paty, West Palm Beach attorney, announced his candidacy for governor on Tuesday night of this week. Mr. Paty made a strong race for governor in 1936 and finished fifth in a field of fourteen candidates. He was high man in many counties, among which were Palm Beach and Dade.

Among other things Mr. Paty said in his announcement: "A cooperative leadership, free from sectional jealousies and bitterness, will contribute greatly to the State's immediate progress. Looking to that end, I now announce my candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Governor, subject to the May primaries. Later I shall announce the platform which, I believe, will contribute greatly to the welfare of this State."

The West Palm Beach attorney, hardly known in northern sections of the state in 1936, gained for himself a reputation as an ardent campaigner and made thousands of friends who will be pleased to know that he is to be a candidate in the 1940 primaries.

A resident of West Palm Beach for the last 15 years, Mr. Paty is a member of the law firm of Paty, Warwick & Mooney. He was born in Bell Buckle, Tenn., attended the University of North Carolina and studied law at Vanderbilt and Cumberland Universities. He served two years in the Army during the World War and began the practice of law at Tullahoma, Tenn. after leaving the service.

He is a past president of the Palm Beach County Bar Association and a member of the American Bar Association. He is Mason, a Shriner and a member of the Americn Legion.

Excellent Prices For Glades Beans

There were somewhere in the neighborhood of 100 cars of beans out over the Florida East Coast railway during the past seven days. The records were garbled and it is impossible for this newspaper to give its usual accurate accounting of this week's shipments.

A frost last Friday night did about 25 per cent damage mostly in the area between South Bay and Belle Glade. Prices did not advance a great deal after the blow struck.

During the week tendergreens have been selling from $1.50 to $2.00 with the major portion of the offerings bringing around $1.75. Valentines have been selling from $1.50 to $2.25 with most of them bringing $1.75 to $1.85. Flats have been selling from $1.50 to $2.25. Growers consider the prices as excellent.

More than 56,000 pounds of American candy specialities were eaten in the Netherlands last year.

Everglades Sugar Cane Acreage Will Be Doubled If And When Limitations Are Lifted By The Federal Government

Bob Creech Sticks It Out On Ritta

R. Y. Creech is the only grower attempting to raise a crop on Ritta Island this season due to the fact that the high lake level has made farming too hazardous. Mr. Creech has had the Arthur Wells dragline working on his dikes for the last three weeks repairing and raising them. He states he now has 170 acres under protection. Forty acres are planted to pepper and egg plant and the reminder is in condition to plant with wind brakes up and growing.

Sugar Restriction May Be Lifted Next Year By Officials

Story Out Of Washington Is Heartening To Cane Producers

Cane growers and would-be cane growers in the Lake Okeechobee region were heartened the first of the week by an Associated Press story out of Washington which says all restrictions on sugar cane farmers may be lifted in 1940. Many growers in this section anticipate planting cane when the restrictions are lifted. The story, which caused elation among those interested in cane production, follows:

Federal farm officials have virtually [illegible] ... ns in 1940 on the production of sugar by farmers in the Continental United States, despite concern expressed in state department quarters that such action might adversely affect trade with Cuba, Puerto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippines.

Under past New Deal farm programs, domestic sugar producers have been limited to the production of about 60 per cent of the nation's needs. The balance was imported from the island possessions and Cuba.

Recent discussions with leaders in the domestic sugar industry, farm officials said, have indicated that a majority of the producers desired to be unhampered by restrictions in 1940. A formal announcement of agriculture department plans is expected to be made soon.

Lifting of restrictions on domestic production, some officials said, could be expected to result in a larger production in this country and consequently a smaller market for sugar produced by Cuba and the offshore possessions.

Should sugar sales by Cuba be reduced, the island growers say, their purchases of industrial goods in this country might suffer.

If there were no sugar control program, growers in this country as well as those in Hawaii and Puerto Rico would receive no government subsidies. The subsidies have been averaging about $48,000,000 a year, of which about $30,000,000 goes to producers of sugar cane and sugar beets in Continental United States.

Farm officials said Cuba might suffer considerably should production and marketing restrictions be lifted. While Cuban sugar could be sold in unlimited amounts on the American market, it would be subject to an import duty of $1.50 a hundred pounds.

Under the control legislation which may be applied at the discretion of the secretary of agriculture—Cuba was guaranteed a fixed share of the American market, subject to an import duty of only 90 cents per hundred pounds.

Farm officials said many domestic producers have expressed the feeling that there should be no restrictions upon the production of a commodity of which this country produces an insufficient supply for its own needs.

U.S.S.C. Head Says 25,000 Acres Will Be Planted By Independents

Sugar cane acreage on the shore of Lake Okeechobee may be doubled within the next few years, if federal restrictions are lifted as now planned by Washington officials. Clarence R. Bitting, president of the United States Sugar corporation, in New York Tuesday said that independent farmers of this area are planning to plant 25,000 acres of cane if and when the restrictions are lifted by federal officials.

Stories originating in Washington early this week were to the effect that federal officials are planning to lift the restrictions in 1940. Mr. Bitting, commenting on the Washington stories, made the following statement:

"The independent farmers of the Everglades are awaiting definite assurances that restrictions on production on non-surplus crops will be permanently removed. As soon as such assurances are available these farmers intend to proceed with the planting of 25,000 to 30,000 acres of sugar-cane and the construction of a sugar-house capable of grinding at least 6,000 tons of cane per day. Such development will involve upwards of $15,000,000 in land, drainage facilities, agricultural equipment, sugar-house facilities, housing facilities, railroads, rolling stock, tractors, wagons, trucks and automobiles.

"Employment would be created for approximately 5,000 persons throughout the United States for upwards of 15 months and permanent employment in the Everglades would be provided for upwards of 6,000 heads of families. Such development would create numerous additional permanent employment, supplying the needs of those directly employed in the operation; a conservative estimate is two persons for every one directly employed, thus this single development, awaiting only the signal to go ahead, will create permanent employment in America, at American wages on an American standard of living for upwards of 20,000 heads of families.

"I have been besieged by those seeking to invest their funds in a proven enterprise in the United States to proceed with further development of sugar culture in the Everglades. Once the clear signal is given, we can proceed with the

Hunters Without Deer Meat Until Friend Divides

Spent 10 Days In Cypress And Never Saw A Buck

There's a story going the rounds in this section that proves something or other. It proves that four certain gentlemen aren't very good when it comes to handling a gun. Either it proves that or it proves they just didn't see much game on a recent trip into the deep cypress country.

When the hunting season opened Johnny Thomas, Lou Betzner, John Harris and Arthur Wells wanted to be on the ground early. They left Pahokee and Belle Glade some time Friday afternoon. Their first hold up was when the game warden wouldn't allow them to enter the reservation until Sunday afternoon. First delay of about 24 hours. The boys camped at the gate and waited until the head man gave the signal.

When the boys finally reached their camping spot they weren't in any too good a humor. However on Monday morning they started out after something — a deer or a turkey. Days came and went. The boys hunted for deer. They hunted for turkey. Their rations got low. Something had to be done.

And that something was done—they looked up Duke Tucker, who was camped a few miles away. Duke was big-hearted and gave the boys a deer ham. And, if it hadn't been for Duke giving the boys some deer meat they would have returned without tasting any. But that's luck for you. Maybe the next time the foursome will have better luck.

There has been all sorts of movements in Congress and some are good and some are bad. But some are rather silly! The fact that one of the most recent meetings called forth a word of protest by a Senator when the word "kids" appeared in an official record. He asked that it might be struck out and tells that there is an active movement afoot to abolish the word "kids" when relating to children. It is a distasteful word to many and we can't say that we prefer it to "youngsters" or "tots". But have you ever noticed a man say "kids" when referring to his own children and there will be such love and affection ringing in his voice that it takes away any sound that would be disrespectful?

HOMES FOR ALL

It was just before the World War that we purchased reliable autos for less than $500. It had been predicted in about 1904 that such an inexpensive means of transportation would come to pass. You can well imagine the denials and the disbelief that such a rumor would cause among a doubting public. To think of an auto within the reach of most everyone—impossible! Experts agreed it could not be done, but we did it.

Who of us in this section do not know of the prefabricated houses that are going up throughout the country? These houses are offered for rent at $10 and $15 a month. The various sections of the house are build in factories and are put together easily by unskilled labor in a few hours. We hear of a quantity production house built of glue and wood. Today, they build you a house while you wait. But consider the price you would have to pay if only one car was manufactured at a time. Why not put house production on a vast basis? There are skeptical minds, but we shall wait and see if the outcome is not most satisfactory. We may live to see the day when a small community will be built at one time.

SMOKED OUT

There are all kinds of cigars on the market, the kind that you buy and the kind that somebody doesn't want and gives away. We have smelled all kinds, in our day, some whose aroma is good and some that left us with a slight nausea. Smoke from cigars is often aggravating when there is too much of it and especially in closed rooms. When giving away your Christmas cigars consider the recent accident caused when a man lost control of his auto and backed into a police car. Upon arrest it was found he was intoxicated with cigar smoke. Seems he hadn't smoked since the World War. On the day of the accident he had a toothache, drank a bottle of beer and smoked a cigar, which made him dizzy. The result was the accident and the arrest. The doctor who examined him said he was drunk on cigar smoke! Readers may wonder if it might not have been the beer, and then there are others who can recall certain cigars that would make an entire army smoke-drunk. But bear this incident in mind when you make out your Christmas shopping list.

EAT THE SURPLUS

Vanished indeed are the heavy laden tables of our great-grandfathers'. There used to be three and four kinds of meat and vegetables, all sorts of breads and jellies, and a large appetite on the part of all participants. Today, in this area of machine and luxury, we do not have the need of energy and the craving for such large meals as they did in those days. Then the lunch-box was full, for the laborer worked longer hours, the school children usually walked to and fro which made for an increased appetite. The housewife did not have the electrical equipment which made her work more tiresome. All of this led to larger appetites than today.

We are informed that if we returned to the old-fashioned appetites of yesteryear, our crop surpluses would be not so much of a problem. Less food is required for today's type of living. There has been a great reduction in consumption since 1900 of wheat, corn, cattle and hogs. Of course we must remember that there has been an increased appetite for fruits and vegetables. But whether it is true or not that increased appetites of the old-fashioned kind would solve the crop surplus problem, there are many Lake Okeechobee region folks who can well recall the days when the dinner table was laden twice as heavy and the body needed twice the amount of food.

on walls and ceiling are complemented by wine rose upholstery and, as in the other cars, window sills are of ebony black and flashings of stainless steel. At one end is a modern electrically operated water cooler, tastefully designed to blend with the interior decorations.

The dining chair, with accommodations for 48, at tables seating four each is handsomely decorated with walls of deep blue and ceiling in mist white and buff tan. The dining chairs are upholstered in blue, while venetian blinds add to the richness of the effect of this car. The buffet is finished in figured wood paneling, while the kitchen, with its bright stainless steel interior, shining pots and gleaming china and glass as one which will be shown to the public. It is completely equipped for efficient service with refrigeration units, ranges, ample sinks, work tables, and storage space. A service door on the side of the car permits loading of supplies directly into the kitchen.

The fifth car of the train is also a full sixty passenger "chair-coach," duplicate of cars two and three with the exception of the color scheme. The decorations of soft greys, greens and blues are set off by rose and tan upholstering.

The sixth car is a fifty-two passenger "chair-coach". Unusually large men's and women's lounges are located at each end of the car. Here the color scheme of the first car is repeated, except for the upholstery, which is in warm brown tints. The end panelling, as in the other cars of the train, is of rich figured woods embellished with a striking decorative treatment showing two sea gulls in flight, suggestive of the warm seas along the east coast of Florida.

The last car, an observation-lounge and tavern car, is given over entirely to entertainment facilities, and is designed for the enjoyment of passengers who desire the companionship of tavern and bar accommodations, or the wide view that may be enjoyed in the rounded observation section. The car will seat 57 passengers in its various space.

The tavern section, in the forward part of the car, will seat thirty-six persons and shows a strikingly new arrangement. Two lounges, equipped with curving divans facing the center of the car and providing intimate accommodations for groups or couples at small tables, are divided by a series of cozy booths, the whole effect being one of luxurious but informal enjoyment. The color effect is designed to carry out this theme, with light grey crown wainscoting, upper side walls of greyed white, and ceiling of burnt yellow. The bar is beautifully decorated in a "drum" motif, and extends into the car from the ajter end of the tavern. It is backed by plate glass, with shelves conveniently arranged for beverages and glassware.

The observation lounge is trained in a rounded and streamlined rear end, the rounded effect being carried out also in the forward end to produce a perfectly oval room. Here, broad windows offer a full view of the country through which the train travels, while deep lounge chairs and restful divans are skillfully arranged to provide maximum comfort. A writing desk is located at the forward end of this lounge, lighted with new-type fluorescent lamps which give a light closely resembling daylight.

New Light Brings Daylight Indoors

Daylight is successfully brought indoors by the new fluorescent lamps, for the first time in modern lighting history. The new type lighting, used in desk lamps and show cases as well as wall fixtures, is considered a great advance in the drive toward a perfectly balanced artificial illumination, according to P. Paul DeMoya, manager of the Florida Power and Light company in Pahokee.

Fluorescent lighting brings indoors the light of the sun, and under its rays all colors spring to life in their true values. This revolutionary new bulb contains no filaments, but gives off a rich glowing light from its entire surface.

Absent from the fluorescent lamp on a desk or table are the shadows and harsh glare that so frequently are found in the older types of illumination. First used in stores selling colored goods and in restaurants wanting to preserve the true colors of their foodstuffs, fluoreacent lights in the last few months have been adapted to all other uses.

TRUCK HIT BY TRAIN

Sam Neal of Lake Worth escaped injury late Saturday night when his truck was hit by a train at the crossing near the power company office in Pahokee. The rear end of the truck was completely demolished.

Would-Be Suicide Returned To Jail

Leroy Young, 24, is a persistent fellow. Two weeks ago the visitor from Washington, D. C., looked over in a Pahokee cafe after a suicide attempt. He was taken to the Pahokee hospital, where he regained his strength.

Upon his release from the hospital, Young went to West Palm Beach, found two Pahokee women in a new automobile at the railroad station, and took their car. He was arrested in Daytona Beach and returned to West Palm Beach on a stolen car charge.

Tuesday Pahokians were surprised to learn that Young had again slashed his arms in an attempt to die. Jailer Tom Riggs of the Palm Beach county jail had him rushed to the Good Samaritan hospital, where it was said, he would recover. Later he was returned to his jail cell.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

By Russell Kay.

On rare occasions the "boss" gets himself "behind the eight ball" and leaves it up to me (his Girl Friday) to write the column. In the past I've always felt that it was just laziness on his part with maybe a slight touch of indigestion, or something, but this week I find myself in the position of understudy and with good reason.

Last Saturday afternoon Russell and Mrs. Kay were driving to Dade City on a business trip and had a sandwich that put Russell to bed with a lot of nice cuts and bruises and Mrs. Kay in the hospital with a wrenched back and a bone splinter.

It seems that some fellow with a load of wood piled high on an antiquated truck decided to make a left turn just as the Kay car was attempting to pass. "Mama" Kay was at the wheel and to avoid the truck she took to the ditch, managing to get by the truck by a hair's breadth, and then struck a culvert in attempting to get back on the highway.

I didn't see the smashup, but they tell me the car did a beautiful somersault and from the looks of the wreck I don't see how anyone got out alive. It sure is amazing how some folks escape, but you bet we girls in the office are certainly thankful that our "Pop" and "Mama" are still with us — even if they are battered up a bit.

The boss says it's a good thing he got hit on the head for it's pretty hard to dent solid IVORY. We went to see "Mama" at the hospital and found she was getting along all right, but it looks as if she'd have to stay there a week or so. But everybody including the victims, are mighty thankful and are now in the proper frame of mind to really appreciate TWO Thanksgivings.

Russell said to just let the column go this week, but I did that and I know I'd have to spend all next week answering phone calls and telegrams and letters from publishers and customers wanting to know "how come"—so I figured it would be as easy, if not easier, to try to dash off a column myself and explain the situation.

The Doc says a day or two in bed ought to fix the boss up O.K. and so I'm counting on his being back in circulation soon enough to fix up a real column for next week.

Now I've said all I really had to say and still have a lot of space to fill and I'm managing to really appreciate why the boss has to sit at his old typewriter chewing his finger nails and scratching his head for hours sometimes when he's working out a column.

Of course I suppose I COULD take up the subject of politics. I imagine I know as much about it as anybody at this time, which is mighty near nothing at all. But from looking over the papers I see where a preacher named Barbee has jumped in the Governor's race and is fixing to set the woods on fire, confident that "Virtue will be rewarded".

Then there is a fellow named Clancey up in Panama City who seems to think that he's important enough to be our Chief Executive, and he's tossed his little hat into the ring.

Spessard Holland was supposed to have announced last Saturday but if he did I haven't heard about it. There's been a lot of talk, too, about Pierce Wood and Arthur Hale coming out for Governor, but I guess they are still just "thinking" about it.

Personally, I think the "boss" ought to run, but he just laughs it off and says "What the heck I ain't got no relatives, so why should I work myself into a lather just for the chance to give a flock of jobs to a lot of strangers?"

Well, maybe he hasn't got any kin folks, but I've got 'em scattered all over three counties and this little Cracker gal could sure give him a swell list to start with and I imagine a lot of other folks would be glad to help him with suggestions.

Well, here's the end of the page, folks—and AM I GLAD!

cooperation enterprise, to the organizers of which, all local farmers, I have pledged my support and cooperation; as soon as such cooperative organization is functioning, it is my intention in cooperation with my associates to proceed with another development involving the investment of an additional $15,000,000, thus duplicating the operation contemplated by the cooperative association of local farmers, and once again provide permanent, self-respecting livelihoods at American wages on an American standard of living for an additional 20,000 heads of families."

Local Pastor Would Like To See Schools Work With Churches

He Suggests Closer Co-operation Among The Institutions

One of the members of our Press Club interviewed Rev. Fred Martin, the pastor of the Pahokee Methodist Church, and obtained the following opinions:

Mr. Martin is thoroughly interested in the school and talked frankly upon his views of the subject. His one criticism given at the beginning of the conversation was that there is not enough cooperation between the churches and the schools. The program put on by the churches and schools are not planned together and often they clash at the same time, making a smaller number of people at both gatherings.

However, there is one thing the whole town works for together and that is football. Mr. Martin thinks we have a fine team and the only comparison he gave was Clearwater. He is proud of our school spirit and the backing we give all the sports.

He is behind the student Council plan 100 per cent. This system is being studied, and he hopes it will be worked out successfully by our school. It will give the students a chance to plan their own objectives and punishments, when needed.

One factor which to him seems important, is the need of a manual training course and a woodwork shop to coincide with the girl's home economics course and to take care of the boys who are not indulging in the agricultural projects.

Future Farmers Win Second Place

State Supervisor J. F. Williams, Jr., sent word to the Pahokee Chapter Officers recently that the Pahokee Chapter of Future Farmers of America has again been awarded second place in district six in the recent F.F.A. Chapter Contest. First place was awarded to the Homestead Chapter.

Awards were based upon Chapter scores made from the accomplishment of the boys in their farming programs, cooperative activities, leadership activities, earning and savings, conduct of meetings, recreation and scholarship activities.

School Cafeteria Is Doing Excellent Work With Help Of Donors

Underprivileged Children Given Assistance Through Donations

Did you know that our school cafeteria feeds fifty-one children every day? Without this lunch these children would be unable to attend school. All the would-be profits from the cafeteria are turned into the fund for feeding these underprivileged children of our school.

This is the greatest number of students the cafeteria has ever attempted to feed. It certainly deserves a vote of thanks for the splendid work that it has done in the past years and for its even better work this year.

The approximate cost to the cafeteria for each student a day is ten to fifteen cents. The whole cost per month is about one hundred and twenty-five dollars.

If you readers are as surprised and pleased about this report as we were, we are sure that you will want to do all that you can toward helping and increasing this great work.

We wish to thank the Rotary club for their contribution of twenty-two dollars toward the milk fund this year.

F.F.A. Chapter Will Sponsor Annual If Students Will Help

Co-operation Necessary If Local Chapter Is To Take On Job

One of the items set up in the annual program of our F.F.A. Chapter is that of serving the student body by taking over the big responsibility of publishing the school annual. From the experience gained in the past, the Chapter hopes to present this year an annual of which we can be duly proud.

Cooperation from the entire student body is absolutely necessary if such an undertaking (which involves large sums of money, time etc.) is to be successful.

The members of the Chapter will pay close attention to your interest in the subject of a 1939-40 school annual, and will, within a few weeks, decide definitely whether an annual will be put out or not. If you want an annual this year, make your wishes known.

ARE YOU A VOTER?

Our library staff is disappointed over the results of our Book Week Polls this year. Out of 153 students in the 4th, 5th and 6th grades (those eligible to vote in the elementary Polls) only 15 students voted. In the high school, out of 332 students, there were 75 voters. It seems that it must be an old American custom to take more interest in talking about elections than in "gripeing" about those persons elected than in actual participation in the election. Too often we Americans leave voting up to the other fellow. It is time we young Americans began thinking and doing something about this, for this indifference to our duties and privileges as students and citizens is alarming. In our Book Week Polls, for instance, we had everything to gain and nothing to lose. Our library book order has not been made up for the year; hence we stood an excellent chance of having included in that order the titles which we suggested.

The staff wishes, however, to thank those students who did participate in the Polls. You will find complete results posted in the library.

Ranking top among the favorite books in our elementary library was Finnemore's "Wolf Patrol"; tied for the other favorites were Twain's "Tom Sawyer", Crimm's "Fairy Tales" Milne's "Winnie the Pooch", Defoe's "Robinson Crusoe," and Bailey's "Seven Peas in a Pod." Leading suggestions as a good book to buy for the elementary library was Field's "Polly Patchwork" and Singmaster's "Swords of Steel."

Ranking first among the favorites in the high school library was Margaret's Mitchell's "Gone With the Wind" (it has been "tops" in our Book Week Polls for three years now); in second place were Bronte's "Wuthering Heights", Hudila's "Katrinka," and Boyleston's "Sue Barton" books; in third place were O'Brien's "Silver Chief", Buck's "East Wind: West Wind," Craig's "Danger Is My Business," Spyri's "Heidi," Borup's "A Tenderfoot with Peary," Fox's "Mountain Girl Comes Home", London's "White Fang," Rawling's "The Yearling," and Barclay's "The Rosary." Among the leading suggestions for books to buy were Boyleston's "Sue Barton, Rural Nurse," Means' "Tangled Waters," Steinbeck's "Grapes of Wrath," Doyle's "Hound of the Baskervilles," Du Maurier's "Rebecca," Ellis' "Soilless Growth of Plants," Grey's "Raiding Spanish Peaks" and "Mark Tidd's Citadel" by Kelland. Since books for school libraries must conform to certain standard lists, and since a few of the above suggestions do not appear on any of these standard lists it will be impossible to purchase all the above suggested titles, however, the library staff, as usual, will do its very best for you.

Blue Devils Play Lake Worth Thanksgiving Eve On Foreign Soil

Locals Back In Fair Condition For Annual Battle

The annual Lake Worth-Pahokee game is to be played Wednesday night on Lake Worth field. The local team is in pretty good shape. H. B. Baxter will still be out and also Elmo Hancock. From interviews of boys and coaches it is expected to be a tough battle from beginning to end. When asked whether we would win or lose, Coach Hobson said he thought it would be an even tossup. Coach Cagni stated that if we play the type of ball we are capable of playing we will beat them but "unless the boys change their attitude we are going to get beat." Both coaches seemed afraid of over-confidence on the Blue Devils part but in several interviews, the boys seemed to realize what a hard-fought game this is going to be.

The probable starting line-up for tonight's game will be:

Center—Denton.
Right Guard—Fears.
Right Tackle—Beardsley.
Right End—Spooner.
Right Halfback—J. Kautz.
Fullback—Dell.
Quarterback—Frasure.

Harry Stafford, a former Pahokee student will probably play his same spot at end on the Lake Worth line-up. Hooks, a Lake Worth back promises to play a good game. "He is one of the best backs the Blue Devils will ever have to play against," according to Coach Cagni.

When interviewed, Marvin Unwin said: "We will be out-weighed considerably but the Lake Worth boys seem to be slow with the exception of Hooks, one of their backs. She should be on the rebound and take the game."

Coach Cagni added: "Lake Worth has improved 100 per cent. We will have to play our best ball to beat 'em."

"Jitterbug" Jack Fowler: "I think most of the boys will be in better shape than they were in the two previous games. I think we have a better team than Lake Worth and if we play football we ought not to have very much trouble."

Coach Hobson seemed to be afraid of an upset: "Lake Worth has been pointing for this game all year and they have an improved team while we are weak due to sickness."

I. J. Frasure came out with: "Lake Worth has really come out of the fog since the first of the season and we are going to have a battle on our hands."

David, the Shepherd

By Molly Chittick

"YOU can't go out to tend the sheep tonight, Judah," David heard the choke in his mother's voice. "The lion's claws have wounded you sore. I will find someone to send out with them."

"He is hot, so hot," she whispered to David after his father had fallen into a troubled sleep. "It will make him sick unto death if he goes out on the plains."

"Fear not, mother. I will go. Now that I am fourteen, I can prove myself a man. I will go, like my great forefather, David the king."

Rebeccah bade him good-by tenderly. "How I a son older, I should send him. But you are all I have. Take care. The lion may return."

So David drove his father's flock out onto the plain where the shepherds watched their flocks by night. The cool breeze from off the mountains made him draw his cloak closer.

Suddenly over the hill before him he saw a group of men approaching.

Suddenly over the hill before him he saw a group of men approaching. That was a surprising thing, to see men wandering about at night. But there was nothing alarming in their actions. They seemed filled with excitement and joy.

Now one of them called: "Who is this, guarding his sheep here?" Here is it you, David, son of Judah? Come with us. We have seen you star, brighter than any star of the morning. It is moving, and we are following it."

David was on his feet, listening with boyish excitement to their tale of the words they had heard from the heavens, as an angelic host praised Jehovah. His heart burned within him, and he was eager to accompany the band of shepherds.

Then he heard one of the young lambs: "Ma-a-aa." The answering bleat came from a distance. The mother had wandered off in search of tender morsels. David heard again his mother's warning.

"I have come to guard my father's flock. I cannot go with you."

"We left our sheep, David. This is the king we are about to see. We must go. You are a fool to stay here with these few sheep, when the king is to be seen."

"I came here to tend this flock. It is not mine, but it is my task," was his only reply.

When they saw that he would not accompany them, they made haste to be on their way.

At first his excitement over the tale the shepherds had told him kept him awake. But gradually his eyes grew heavy. He was almost asleep when he heard the "Ma-a-aa," of a young lamb again. He jumped to his feet, conscious that he had forgotten to hunt up that wandering mother. With staff in hand, and his sling ready to use, he listened intently for a moment. Then he saw the sheep, standing some distance from the others, its head raised listening to something he could not hear. But David knew what there was to be found there. With the starlight shining full upon it, crouched a lion ready to spring.

Swift as the David of old, the lad swung his sling, and the stone went straight into the head of the crouching animal. With a low yielding of its body the lion fell in death.

"I am glad, my son, that you were so faithful," his mother praised him in the morning. "Your father died by the hands of himself, wild with his illness, and had I not been able to tell him you were with the flocks he would have gone out, sick as he was. And now you have slain a lion. Your fame will go before you."

"But mother, I did not see 'the king,'" and David's voice trembled.

"Do you not think the king would have secured a Lad who would dessert his post of duty from idle curiosity? Nay, my son, you have done your task faithfully and well, and proved yourself a man. Later you may see the king."

Bethlehem Once Unimportant

The city of Bethlehem, birthplace of Jesus Christ, was considered least important among ancient Palestine towns before the Nativity. But tradition has it that the birthplace of Jesus was desecrated by a pagan temple of Adonis before the Emperor Constantine built the basilica of the Nativity in A. D. 330. The basilica is one of the oldest churches in Christendom and has a history 1,600 years old. The original building is still standing but it has been altered by additions.

Stranger In Town

By Sarah Jane Clark

JIM saw Joan first as she stopped in at Du Vall's grocery.

"Mother wants a T-bone steak, the kind she always gets, and a pound of bacon." Her voice was that delightfully husky kind.

Jim, having finished his purchase, got out his money slowly, counted up the amount of his purchases and looked over his change carefully before he pocketed it.

She looked like a grand girl. He wished he knew her. But he was a stranger in the big city, and he'd have to wait. Couldn't rush things with a girl like that. And perhaps she had a boy friend already. Unconsciously he slowed down at the corner of his apartment building. Stupid, to have to eat all alone, the night before Christmas.

Jim turned to look back at the store he had just left, and found that the girl had overtaken him.

"Hello, there, you going my way?" he asked. "I'm a stranger here, and it's mighty lonesome at Christmas—"

But the girl, with a cool, "Excuse me, please," hurried on.

Jim's cheeks burned. He hadn't meant to be fresh, really.

He turned the corner and entered the doorway of his apartment. Then he saw the girl the third time. She was just opening the door and going up the stairs. She lived in the same building with him!

He ate his solitary supper in his one room kitchenette apartment. Then what was there to do? His first Christmas away from home. His job here was so new that he didn't dared to ask for time off to come. Well, he supposed he could go to a show.

But when Jim got out onto Dolarway Place he almost changed his mind. A snow had begun to fall, a heavy leisurely snow with big flakes that made a thick carpet on the streets and sidewalks, already icy from the drizzle of the afternoon. He hesitated a minute about starting out on such a night, then thinking of the lonely room he had just quitted, he shrugged his shoulders and started up the street.

With his head down he trudged through the snow, plowing his way with difficulty against the strong wind. Too late he saw a dark figure directly in front of him. There was a bump, and a crash as an armful of packages landed on the sidewalk. Startled, Jim looked into the face of the girl he was thinking about. His face red with embarrassment, Jim picked up her bundles.

Strange to say, the girl laughed amusedly. "Why go around bumping into people this way? It's just my luck, Christmas eve, to have my bundles all scattered, and," a little ruefully, "some of them broken."

"Say, that's a shame. You must let me replace anything that's broken," Jim insisted. "Really I'm awfully sorry about this. I was facing the snow and had my head down. I'll never forgive myself if you don't let me do this last minute shopping with you. I am Jim Sheridan, from Dubuque, working for the Times."

"Well, I'm Joan Siegfred. I've been feeling sorry for the way I squelched you a while ago. So I'm glad of a chance to say so." Her eyes were bright and sparkling and her cheeks glowing from the cold.

Walking down the busy streets with a pretty girl, replacing Christmas decorations that had been smashed in the fall, and being allowed to help put them on the tree later, was a lot better than going to a picture show alone. And when Joan's cheerful, friendly mother asked the homesick lad to have dinner with them next day, Jim felt that he was no longer a friendless stranger in a big city, and that Christmas was a time of peace and good will, after all.

Christmas on the Highway

CHICAGO.—With traffic increased by the Christmas rush, more American lives were lost in automobile accidents during the last month of December, 1938, than in the Revolutionary war. But last December, in a campaign led by the National Safety council, the toll was reduced by 400 lives. But still 3,650 people were killed that month. Pedestrians and motorists alike were responsible for this "field day" of the Grim Reaper. People are often less cautious during the holiday season,

The Little Fir Tree

By Henry Harding

THERE was very little sunlight in the forest. The trees were so big, all the grown up trees. The little fir tree stretched himself, and tried to imagine himself as full grown. Looking up at the sky and the stars and the moon, he listened to the big trees talk. "Isn't the moon bright tonight," one would say; and there would be a gentle rustling of their leaves as the trees would shake their heads in agreement.

"I'm afraid you're going to be stunted, because there is so much shade here," a little squirrel said to the fir one day as he jumped into its branches and brushed the top limbs with his bushy tail. "It takes sunlight to make anything grow strong and tall."

So the little fir tree stretched himself up, and kept his head pointed up toward the spot of sunlight he saw clear up through the maze of heavy tree growth. He could be straight and outstanding, even if he hadn't grown tall.

Today the ground was all covered with the snow which stayed white in the forest. All but a few birds had gone south. Every once in a while there was the sound of steel striking against wood, and infrequently a crashing sound of falling trees.

The tall trees began to tremble. "The woodcutters are out. But this is a funny time of year," one mur-

"I never saw a more beautiful tree," he said. "It seems to glow."

mured to the others. Then one of the little snow birds spoke. "Have you forgotten that every year they come to cut Christmas trees?"

"What are Christmas trees?" the little fir asked.

"Oh, they cut down the trees and take them in the house, and put candles on them so they look like stars, and spangles that look like snow shining in the moonlight. And the people sing songs and give each other gifts, and it is a time of being glad," the little snow bird twittered.

"Oh, I wish they would take me," the little fir cried in excitement. "I'd love to see it all. I'd love to make people happy. But I'm too little," and he sighed unhappily.

"Sh! Let's all be quiet," one of the tall trees exclaimed. "The woodsmen are coming near us. We must be quiet so they won't notice us. Then we won't be cut down and left to die."

But in spite of their silence, the men drew near. They looked at the trees, and one of them said: "Oh, these are all too tall. No house or church could hold them. Let's get on."

Just then a little lad who was riding in the sled, called to his father: "Dad, can we find a little tree for sister? Couldn't we find a cute little tree to put in her very own room?"

"Ho! Ho!" laughed a big rough man. "In her own room? No little girl will stay in her room on Christmas day!"

The lad's father answered, sadly: "Yes, my little girl will. She had infantile paralysis last summer, and hasn't been able to walk since. Surely, son, we'll find a little tree for her."

"Here I am, here I am! come and get me," the little fir tree called out lustily. And the little boy turned and saw the branches trembling and the little snow bird flying away.

"Why, what's that over there? A straight tree. Wonder if it will be called."

The man did not hear the call. He walked to the tree and fondled it gently. "I never saw a more beautiful tree. It seems to glow. Molly will love it," he said with a smile.

The little tree was so happy that he didn't feel the blows from the ax that cut him to the ground. And when they put him into the sled, he was still happy. The little boy called to his father: "It sounds as if the little tree was singing when the wind blows through its branches." And the little tree laughed delightedly.

WENDY BARRIE

Two Young Players Reunited In Drama

Marking their fourth appearance together on the screen, Wendy Barrie and Kent Taylor preside over the two romances threaded throughout "Five Came Back."

The popular young players previously worked together in "Prescription for Romance," "Wings Over Honolulu" and "A Girl With Ideas."

In the current picture, Taylor plays an aviator and Miss Barrie is seen as an heiress. When their large passenger plane is forced down in a South American jungle, with nine other passengers aboard, a romance between the two develops during the party's enforced stay.

Chester Morris and Lucille Ball head the ten names which comprise the featured cast, and also provide romantic interest in this gripping drama of sacrifice and heroism.

"OUT WEST WITH THE HARDYS"

By popular request the management is returning the great laugh-fest, "OUT WEST WITH THE HARDYS," to the Everglades screen, Belle Glade, Saturday, December 2nd.

Many remember this fil as one of this ever popular family's funniest shows. Out West on a western ranch Mickey Rooney more than meets his match in the person of Virginia Weidler, for no matter what new Western stunt Mickey attempts, Virginia always goes his one better.

Of course Mickey has his usual tiff with his best girl friend, Polly Benedict, which usually end in a "man to man talk" with the Judge, who manages to straighten everything out to the entire satisfaction of all concerned.

Added to all this is some real dramatic moments revolving about a pet horse that Mickey almost kills while learning to be a real buck-a-roo.
